JEWEL CLARK reports that her new album "Facets" is already getting excellent play on local radio stations. The cassette, which features very danceable rockabilly to blues cuts, is available at Prim's and other local outlets. (Photo from album-cover portrait by Janice Kaufman)

Local artist now local songstress

Whoa! Look out Nashville—Jewel Clark, of Bethel, is on the loose. Daughter of the well-known Yodanis Slim Clark, Ms. Clark has just released her first tape recording, "Facets," on Tourmaline Records. And the originality of the songs, plus the sweet-to-rough voice of Ms. Clark seems likely to make it a local favorite.

The tape contains four songs, all written by the singer: "Spend the Night," "Gettin' Even," "Married Ol' Man," and "Good Guys Are No Fun."

The numbers vary from rockabilly to a fast version of the blues, and all are eminently danceable. As indicated by the titles, all are about romance—in one form or another—and "Good Guys" (which contains a wonderful beep-beep duet between singer and guitar) might be considered for a PG-13 rating. As Ms. Clark—a local artist and active volunteer in the schools—states on the tape cover, "Lines in these songs are not necessarily the opinion of the author."

The new release is not the first time the local singer has been recorded. She did a song called "My Dad" on an album her Backing up Ms. Clark on her first solo release are the following: Ted St. Pierre (guitar, bass and drums), Rolly York (slide guitar and rhythm guitar), Gary Rounds (saxophone), Tony Andrews (guitar), Percy Curtis (dobro), Jay Roy (fiddle), Connie St. Pierre (backup vocals). The accompaniment of each number is perfectly suited to the style of song and shows much creativity and musicality.

The painting on the cover of the album was done by local artist Janice Kaufman. The album has been under production since 1986, when the first song was

Eastern Europe: Telstar class debates America's options

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Give Eastern European countries more money now, or less. Tie aid to political reforms, or to increased privatization. Send economic advisors, or toilet paper. Encourage the countries to solve their own problems, or "Let them go back to communism."

Social Studies teacher Charlie Raymond has been challenging his 10th Grade area studies class to confront the same options facing American policy makers as they attempt to deal with the explosion of political unrest in Eastern Europe.

The unprecedented changes in that long-stagnant part of the world fill the nightly news, but the pace of that change—the astonishing speed with which the Communist grip is slipping on Poland, East Germany, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and other members of the Warsaw Pact—has left American textbooks and curriculum guides far behind.

As American policy makers scurry to come up with a coherent strategy for dealing with these changes, local social studies teachers are busy trying to make events meaningful for students who are often too young to grasp their context or significance.

And, using newswriting, periodicals and videotapes, teachers are also turning these exciting current events into object lessons to illustrate the larger concepts of history.

Bill Morton is social studies curriculum coordinator for Telstar High School and Middle School. He said that while the formal curriculum for a given social studies course may not seem to encompass current events in Eastern Europe, teachers are often able to work the material in on a day-to-day basis.

For example, students in the 7th Grade geography class recently discussed the opening of the Berlin Wall. And Eastern Europe's recent mass demonstrations in demand of greater democracy have been used in 9th Grade civics classes to explore just what a word such as "democracy" actually means in different political systems.

Charlie Raymond's 10th Grade area studies course is well-suited to dealing with rapidly emerging issues and events. "When something like this comes along, we can shift gears from what we'd normally be doing," he said.

The students recently completed a unit on the Soviet Union and have since moved on to explore the changes in Moscow's restive satellites.

Last week they debated how the United

The moves were in response to the resignation of 2nd Grade teacher Shirley Seames and to the influx of students—many with special needs—into the WES 2nd Grade.

The administration will now determine how best to shuffle students, teachers and space at the school, in order to meet the needs of the 28 students in the class. With 4th Grade class at WES also becoming crowded (it currently has 28 students), the board approved the appointment of Linda Curley as an instructor.

Bethel planners to look at site plan amendments

The Bethel Planning Board, at its meeting tonight (Wednesday), will deal with possible amendments to a number of site plans already approved.

The Ski Outlet Ski Shop, on the Sunday River Road, will present an amended plan to cover its sign. Residents objecting to the lighted sign have been notified to be at the meeting if they want their objections heard.

BRRRR! And you thought you were cold. Winter doesn't arrive for another week, but the early onslaught of arctic-like conditions has brought joy to the hearts of skiers and fuel oil dealers. The weather experts are not holding out any promises of warmer weather in the near future—so this hardy fellow, standing at the water's edge behind Savage's Boiler Room Restaurant, in Bryant Pond, will just have to hold his head as he waits for summer and watches the toasty diners enjoying themselves inside. Project DARE receives grant from Maine Masons

Project DARE has received a $1,500 boost from the Grand Masonic Lodge of Maine.

The Maine Masonic Foundation for the Prevention of Drug and Alcohol Abuse among Children has awarded the S.A.D. #4 DARE effort a mini-grant of $1,500, which will be used for starting up the anti-drug-abuse program in the district and for its ongoing activities. Bethel Police Chief Brian Stowell, who is spearheading the effort to establish a DARE program in the district, said the program still has many obstacles to clear before it becomes a reality.

"This is certainly an encouraging note," he said. "Money is probably going to be our biggest problem—so the more we can get from the private sector the better."

DARE organizers have also applied for other grants, he noted.

EASTERN EUROPE MAY BE THOUSANDS OF MILES AWAY, but the students in Charlie Raymond's 10th Grade area studies class are well aware that what goes on there, or anywhere else in the world, can have an impact on their own lives. Last week the students debated how the United States should respond to the astonishing changes in Eastern Europe. The class ended up op- ponding for a cautious, wait-and-see approach—not unlike that being followed by Washington.

Film festival focuses on our evolving self-image

As part of the state-wide Maine Street '90 celebrations, the Upton Playhouse at the Hammes House in Bethel will open its doors Jan. 18 for a four-week film festival, to be held Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m.

Linked together by the theme "How Americans have looked at Themselves Through the Decades 1920-1950," the four feature films will be: Jan. 18—Charlie Chaplin, Modern Times; Jan. 25—Fred Astaire, Top Hat; Feb. 1—Humphrey Bogart, Key Largo; Feb. 8—John Wayne, Red River. Vintage newsreels and cartoons will also be part of the program.

Old-time refreshments will be available, and following each show there will be discussion for those who enjoy talking about films, and want to explore the social and cultural climate of each decade, how these factors affected the

Andover and Blue Rock discuss surface problems on East B Hill Road

By BARBARA ADAMS

At the Dec. 7 meeting of the Andover selectmen, discussion resumed with president Guy Melcher and vice president Bill Hascall of Blue Rock Industries in regard to the unsatisfactory resurfacing of East B Hill Road, which has resulted in many citizen complaints.

Following the advice of town counsel, Curtis Webber, the selectmen will withhold the estimated cost of repairs still to be done from the $67,000 balance still owed Blue Rock on their $117,000 bill for the work.

Blue Rock claims rain and traffic prevented the road surface from hardening properly.

Mr. Melcher will list repairs to be done in writing and his intention of taking care of them, as well as when the repairs would be completed. Patching will be the first step, with probable hot topping in the spring.

Mr. Hascall said: "Unfortunately we couldn't get the roads right before the early snow. We are here to work out a reasonable settlement and hope you understand we want to satisfy you. Our business has been in the state for 70 years and we would like to be back here doing work for you."

Mr. Melcher assured the selectmen he would have something in writing by the first part of the week for the selectmen

Rainey given maximum penalty for 1988 murders

Gary M. Rainey, 52, was sentenced Friday to two terms of life imprisonment for the October 1988 murders of his stepdaughter Kimberly Shriver, 23, and her boyfriend Christopher Greska, 31.

The couple was shot to death in the home they shared on the Osgood Road, in Bethel.

In sentencing, at the Oxford County Superior Court, Justice Carl O. Bradford also sentenced the Locke Mills man to a 20-year prison term for the attempted murder of his stepson, Barry Coolidge, 27.

Mr. Coolidge was shot at Mr. Rainey's former residence on Bird Hill Road, in Locke Mills. Mr. Coolidge had recently moved into the Bird Hill house, which was the center of a dispute between Mr. Rainey and his estranged wife Madeline.

Mr. Coolidge was shot six times, including twice in the head, but has since partially recovered and has been able to return to work.

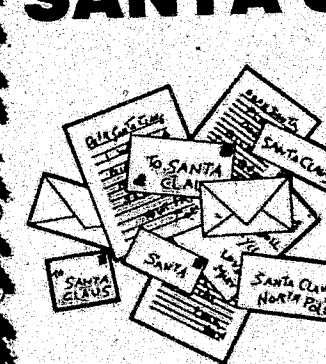

Mr. Rainey's sentences will run concurrently.

In assigning the sentences, Justice Bradford rejected defense attorney Robert Russell's argument for sentences of 25 to 30 years for the two murders.

Opinions

Witnesses to history

Not every generation has a memorable event around which to focus its time on this earth; and for those generations that are given such historical markers, the memory often inflicts pain. So it is for those able to remember the outbreak of World War II or the death of John F. Kennedy. For other generations there are sweet memorial markers: the armistice ending World War I, man's first visit to the moon.

Now, in this year of 1989, thanks to the bravery of unarmed masses of Europeans, those who have lived under the chilling effects of the Cold War have had a burden lifted and are able to develop a more optimistic view of their future.

Whereas the younger generation used to express fears that a nuclear war would end life as they knew it, they now are able to plan confidently—and work on building a better world.

It is good that the historic events unfolding in central and eastern Europe are being discussed in local classrooms—both at Telstar and in Agnes Gray. And it is good to see how quickly students' attitudes are changing about the Soviet Union and the peoples of the former Soviet bloc.

Let the students be disappointed later on, they should realize that the countries now opting for open political processes as opposed to one-party rule are not going to look like miniature Americas when they have metamorphosed. The central European countries, with their strong tradition of socialism are not likely to convert to laissez faire capitalism. They look at the United States and appreciate the benefits of a free market society; but they also see the waste that a free market produces: the high infant mortality rate, the tens of thousands of homeless, the uneducated and the unemployed.

Socialism developed in Europe in the 1800s in response to the abuses of capitalism. Government was seen as a necessary arbiter in economic decision-making to ensure that the fruits of society's labors were distributed fairly.

It was not the failure of socialism that caused the enslavement of the central and east European peoples. It was the spread of Leninism behind the guns of the Soviet Union.

Whereas Marxism preached the overthrow of capitalism by socialism, Leninism decreed that the only way to socialism was through the leadership of one party, the Communist Party. With the spread of one-party rule from Moscow to the Berlin Wall, the dream of democratic-socialism was doomed.

Now that the leaders in Moscow have realized their one-party system has stifled economic growth, the green light has been given by them for all sorts of liberalizing changes, the most important of which is the unchaining of the various national governments from the Communist parties.

As the countries of central and eastern Europe retake control of their own destinies, it is likely that a number of socialist (non-communist) governments will come into being. It is also likely that the energies being released on the far side of the Berlin Wall will produce aftershocks on this side as well, possibly leading to a reassessment of socialism in England and the U.S.

The important thing for local students—and Americans in general—to understand, is that America is not the model the central and eastern Europeans will be trying to imitate. Rather than imitating, they will be building their own future based on their own, long-held socialist ideals. bfw

Letters to the editor

To the Editor:

The families of Crescent Park School have been blessed with several events lately and the staff would like to thank those who have been so generous in their contributions.

We had heartwarming responses to our Thanksgiving baskets; thanks to all who contributed food or money, and especially to the following for their hard work in preparing and delivering baskets: Shirley Merrill, Elizabeth O'Meara, Brenda Wright, Barbara Brooks, Althea Stevens, Mary McVey, Kathy Jo Farren, and Sally Hannon.

On Sunday, Dec. 10, many children and their families were delighted with sleigh rides, visits with Santa and refreshments at the school. Thanks to the Boosters Club for their hard work and planning, to all those parents who contributed refreshments, and to Tim and Joanne Korhonen and Naomi and Bobby for the sleigh rides.

The spirit of the season has touched our children and their families, and we are grateful.

Sen. Mitchell says...

As the tide of democracy continues in Eastern Europe, President Bush and Soviet President Gorbachev recently met at Malta to discuss the future of superpower relations in the face of a changing world. The meeting, which produced pledges to normalize trade relations and to swiftly conclude ongoing arms negotiations, represents a positive new stage in relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

I commend President Bush's decision to work to end trade discrimination against the Soviet Union and to support Soviet participation in Western economic organizations.

Since 1974, when Congress enacted the Jackson-Vanik amendment to the Trade Act, the United States has refused to grant most-favored-nation trading status to non-market economy countries that deny their citizens the freedom to emigrate. In the early-1980s, only about 1,000 people were allowed to leave the Soviet Union annually. Under Gorbachev's policy of glasnost and openness, emigration from the Soviet Union has increased dramatically. Since the beginning of 1989, over 100,000 people have left the Soviet Union, and it is estimated that over 150,000 will leave by the end of the year.

While I believe that an immediate temporary waiver of the Jackson-Vanik amendment is deserved, not a waiver conditioned on other Soviet actions, the President proposed at Malta, I am encouraged by the President's willingness to begin negotiations on a commercial trade agreement necessary to formally convey most-favored-nation trade status. In addition, the President now also supports granting the Soviet Union observer status at the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). GATT is the organization of trading nations that establishes the rules of international trade.

I am highly encouraged that Presidents Bush and Gorbachev made a commitment at Malta to reinvestigate ongoing arms control negotiations in hopes of concluding agreements at the June summit in Washington.

In the strategic nuclear, conventional and chemical arms control negotiations, fundamental conceptual agreement already has been reached. Although outstanding technical issues remain, I believe that the personal commitment of the two leaders should help enable completion of these negotiations by the spring.

I am particularly pleased that the Administration has resolved the contradiction between its intention to promote a global chemical weapons ban while simultaneously seeking to continue producing chemical weapons after signing such a treaty. I am encouraged that President Bush has decided no longer seek to continue producing chemical arms after signing a treaty to ban them.

Concluding the current conventional negotiations underway in Vienna has assumed even greater importance in light of the changes taking place in Eastern Europe. Political momentum remains essential for these complex multilateral talks. I believe the Malta meeting provided an important boost to these negotiations.

In broader terms, there is also a pressing need for the United States to redefine our strategic posture—not simply within budgetary guidelines, but by assessing the military threats we face and the capabilities we require to meet those threats. We need to begin discussions with our allies to develop a framework to move beyond the conventional reductions currently under negotiation.

Clearly, we are at the end of the post-war era. The rigid political, economic, and security arrangements of the European continent for the past four decades have cracked under the twin pressures of the failure of Communism as a system of economic and political organization, and the universal desire for freedom and economic opportunity. This process of change will be a central focus of our relations with the Soviet Union into the 21st century.

I believe that the Malta meeting and the ongoing negotiations lay the foundation for improved relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, relations that will increasingly foster peace, stability and economic and political freedom for the people of Europe and the world.

From Sen Cohen...

Since the earliest days of this republic, our leaders have stressed the importance of reading and the role it plays in the functioning of our democracy.

Thomas Jefferson is often quoted as saying, "Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

In Maine, there are 110,000 adults who are functionally illiterate, according to the Adult Basic Education office of the Department of Educational and Cultural Services. These people cannot read a map or bus schedule, let alone the more complicated trappings of our society such as income tax forms and telephone books.

This problem is more than an inconvenience. It has serious economic consequences. New York Telephone, for example, recently tested 60,000 people in order to hire 3,000. 84 percent of those tested failed the exam. Overall, the cost of illiteracy to U.S. business runs into the billions—money that companies must spend on basic education and training for specific job skills—not to mention the reduced earning power of those who cannot read well.

The Senate Labor Committee estimates that by 2000, three-quarters of all U.S. jobs will require more than a 9th Grade education.

The state of Maine is making strides in dealing with the problem through state and local programs that are supplemented by about $800,000 from the federal government. These funds go to support literacy programs in about 80 school districts.

In addition, the Legislature recently made the G.E.D. high school equivalency tests free to all Maine adults, an estimated 230,000 of whom have not completed high school. A media campaign has generated interest in the program, and the number of those taking the test has increased markedly. The state also is working with business and industry to make literacy classes more accessible.

But there is much more to be done, and it's important for the federal government to provide additional help. For this reason I am cosponsoring legislation—the National Literacy Act of 1989—which has the goal of eliminating illiteracy by the year 2000.

This bill attacks the problem in several ways. It would:

- Create a National Literacy 2000 Interagency Council to coordinate the efforts of about a dozen federal agencies, such as the Pentagon and the Justice Department, which now all deal separately with illiteracy.

- Create a National Center for Literacy to act as a clearing house, offer a hotline and conduct research on literacy techniques.

- Provide funding for state literacy centers.

- Improve work force literacy. The bill increases funding for a business-labor education partnership program for combating illiteracy. IBM in Chicago, for example, trained 200 employees in a year who then worked with illiterate employees and neighbors.

The federal government now spends about $300 million a year on literacy programs with state and local governments spending an equal amount. The bill also would increase funding for Adult Education Basic Skills Grants for teacher training and special projects.

As John Adams, another Founding Father, noted, "The more one reads the more one sees we have to read." As society grows more complicated, we must make sure that everyone can enjoy the wonders and benefits of the printed word. No one should be left behind.

Telstar Drama Club

will present 'Games'

On Friday Dec. 15, the Telstar High School Drama Club will be performing the play "Games."

The play involves the childhood games that seemed innocent at the time but when you really think about it, maybe those games really weren't so innocent.

The performance will be held at Telstar High School at 8 p.m. The students involved are Becky Hanson as Meg, Jolana Roford as Patricia, Denise Coolidge as Julia, and Solai Buchanan as Liz. These four adults reminisce about the good old days when they were kids—played by Jon Percival, Debbie Bethel, Erica Such, Todd Posey, Robert Hand, Stacy Kangas, Pam Bennett, Terry Apple, Becky Currier, Meredith Otten, and Greg Corrin.

Liz points out, though, the effects of all those games, which stir up an uneasiness among the four friends. All of this comes about from Liz, in her older years remembering the little get together one lonely night. The older Liz is played by Shilo Hutchins.

Bethel Bancorp earnings about even with year ago

Jim Delamater, president and CEO of Bethel Bancorp announced that the company earned $289,740, or 51 cents per share, for its second quarter ended Oct. 31, 1989. Net income for the year to date totals $500,539, or 95 cents per share. Net income for the second quarter, ended Oct. 31, 1988, was 81 cents per share, while six month earnings totaled $1.01 per share.

Mr. Delamater said, "These earnings compare favorably with last year's record performance and the company anticipates the remainder of the year to be on budget."

At present, most of Bethel Bancorp's earnings are provided by Bethel Savings Bank FSB, its wholly owned subsidiary, with branches in Bethel, Harrison, South Paris and Rumford. Recently, Bethel Savings Bank FSB announced plans to acquire Brunswick Federal Savings Bank, F.A., in Brunswick.

Mr. Delamater said, "Brunswick will be a great addition to the company, and both Bethel and Brunswick will continue to be run as traditional community banks. Customer service and satisfaction will be maintained through excellent employee attitudes, delivery of products and services."

Elderly can convert home equity into cash

A Maine State Housing Authority demonstration program will help up to 50 elderly Maine home owners remain in their homes by providing them cash for the equity value of their property.

The Home Equity Conversion mortgage (HECM) program provides the elderly home owner an amount equal to the appraised value of the property or the Federal Housing Authority insurance limit, whichever is less. The elderly home owner then can use the cash for whatever purpose he or she chooses.

There are many elderly in Maine who are property rich because of the home and land they own, but cash poor struggling to make payments on taxes, electricity, heating fuel, and paying for the upkeep of their home, food, medicine and other necessities," MSHA Director Elizabeth H. Mitchell said.

"One way to help these elderly is through a home equity conversion mortgage, sometimes called a reverse annuity mortgage, that gives the elderly cash for their home while allowing them to continue to live in it.

"Our new HECM program, a demonstration sponsored by the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, will provide 50 Maine elderly the opportunity to live in their home while using the cash value of it."

Elderly who are at least 62 years old, own a single family home or condominium, and have a gross annual income of $34,600 or less are eligible to apply. If more than 50 eligible elderly apply, the MSHA will make the initial selection of applicants by lottery.

Elderly home owners using the HECM demonstration have the option of receiving their loan as a lump sum (line of credit), over a set period of years (term payment), for as long as they live in the home, or some combination of those methods.

The elderly home owners may remain in their homes for as long as they are able, even if the money they receive from a lump sum payment is used or a term payment plan ends. The amount of the HECM loan depends on the value of the property, the type of payment plan, and age of the home owner.

Mrs. Mitchell explained that in the MSHA demonstration program the principal and interest of the HECM loan never will exceed the value of the property.

When the elderly owner dies or moves to a nursing home, the home is sold to repay the HECM loan.

If the value of the home exceeds the HECM loan, extra proceeds to go the heirs. The heirs also have the option of purchasing the property.

Mrs. Mitchell noted that elderly home owners selected to participate in the program must thoroughly discuss the program and other options with Maine's Department of Elder and Adult Services prior to actually applying for a HECM loan at a participating bank.

The loan can be used for nearly any purpose, including making repairs to the home and paying off an existing mortgage, in addition to meeting ordinary living expenses.

"We have an unwritten law in the company," he added, "that our work is guaranteed for a year, and longer if it is our fault."

The selectmen agreed they would be satisfied to have the situation righted and not seek additional damages for inconvenience and aggravation—as town attorney Webber had also suggested.

In reiterating their stand of "not spending public dollars for private interest," the selectmen will send a letter to postmaster James Desjardins, with a copy to Arthur Myshraill, owner of the post office property, that despite the fact the town has sought estimates, the cost of curing the water problem in the parking lot (which turned out to be prohibitive), they feel, after consideration of all the factors involved, that the situation was caused by private development of the property, and is a landlord-tenant dispute not involving the town.

As a result of a citizen complaint to the State Bureau of Taxes and Investigation, by state assessor Roland Moreau, the town is required to make adjustments in mobile homes assessments. Such homes are presently assessed for 100 percent of their fair market value, while the rest of the real estate in the town is assessed for approximately 70 percent of its fair market value.

Mr. Moreau claimed the town's assessment procedures were therefore not equitable. The town has received a letter from the tax bureau stating the town's cooperation would preclude any further action.

The selectmen will get a list of the mobile homes in the town and review the assessments before the next selectmen's meeting. Revaluation of all town real estate is scheduled for next year.

Land surveyor Charles "Bucky" Burnham appeared before the board citing a discrepancy in a tax map regarding land owned by Robert Lemieux and John Poor. Lemieux is presently being taxed for substantial acreage actually owned by Poor, and the proper adjustment will be made.

The town is looking for someone with medical experience for the paid position of public health officer to report communicable diseases to the state and run clinics.

Fire Chief Ken Dixon notified the board that on Jan. 6 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. veterinarian Jim Hudson, of Bethel, will hold a rabies clinic at the fire station. He will also be cutting pets' toenails and giving distemper shots. Town Clerk Kathy Williamson will be on hand for dog registration. There will be a charge for the veterinary services.

George Casavant and Christian Hutchins, accompanied by Christian's mother Sharon, presented a petition to the board of 40 signatures seeking the town's approval for a skateboard area, possibly behind the visitors dugout at the ball park.

"We intend to work on it ourselves," Christian stated, "and will have from 15 to 20 people working on it."

The youths were told to draw up plans and get cost estimates for presentation at the town meeting in March. Sharon Hutchins assured the board that "skateboarding in Andover is drug free and those who participate are well aware they have to have the proper equipment."

The youths will appear before the budget committee meeting on Dec. 19 to get the item on the town warrant and in the meantime the town will check the town's liability insurance in this matter. Discussion on continuing to plow town driveways was tabled until the next selectmen's meeting.

CANDLELIGHT SERVICE

The Universalist Church of Bryant Pond will hold a candlelight service at 7 p.m. Dec. 17.

The service will be member held with carol singing and readings. Refreshments will follow. Everyone is welcome.

Employment support for people over 55 available in Rumford

An employment support counselor will be at the Maine Job Service on Congress Street, Rumford, on Wednesday, Dec. 13, and Wednesday, Dec. 20 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. to inform Bethel and Bethel area residents about the Senior Community Service Employment Project (SCSEP), which will be of interest to income eligible people in the area who are over the age of 55.

The state-wide SCSEP project is federally funded, overseen by the National Council of Aging, and administered by the University of Maine Cooperative Extension. It is an Equal Opportunity Program with four major goals: to upgrade job skills of the mature person for job placement; to provide added income ($2.75 per hour) for a 20-hour week during training; to help the mature person to get involved in his/her community; and to provide a community service.

This is aimed at people who may no longer be working due to layoffs, plant close-downs, outdated skills or forced retirement, or others who have never worked outside the home at all.

The SCSEP project does not offer persons a permanent job, but a subsidized job and work experience, so that later entrance to the competitive market is possible. A certain percentage of the 20-hour work week can also be spent in formal classroom training, which is counted toward hours spent on the job.

SCSEP works hand in hand with other resources to provide the best possible opportunities for the mature person. It works with Job Training Partnership Act programs, Displaced Homemakers, and vocational schools, as well as other organizations. These resources can offer on-the-job training, job seeking workshops, resume writing classes, vocation training, and much much more. If a participant is income eligible, his or her skills will be matched to the demands of the non-profit training site (such as libraries, museums, health centers, community service agencies, hospitals, etc.) He or she will be given a detailed job description and training.

The employment/support counselor can give more information in Rumford on Dec. 13 or 20.

LEGION CHRISTMAS EVENTS

Members of the Jackson-Silver Post 68 American Legion met for their December meeting at their Hall in Locke Mills, Thursday, Dec. 7.

Under business it was voted to let the hall to the "Maine Riders" for their annual Christmas party, Dec. 14.

It was further voted that the Post would make a donation of $10 to the Oratorical Contest, but that further business on giving donations will be tabled until the next meeting to be acted on by the Executive Board at a later date before the next monthly meeting.

At the close of the business meeting some time given to discussion of the recent proposed government ruling that would have all Maine Veterans Service Records transferred to Manchester, N.H. Of those present all were opposed to such a move.

The Post was honored to have the Adjutant of the 2nd District, John Kezal, present at the meeting.

The Post will sponsor a New Year's Eve Dance and celebration at the Legion hall, Locke Mills, this New Year's Eve. There will be a catered buffet meal at 7:30 p.m., followed by a New Year's Eve Ball from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., with Lee Moore and "The Ridge Riders" as the States should deal with these changes. "I want them to discuss the options, form an opinion, and be able to defend it," Mr. Raymond said.

Earlier, the students had broken into small groups and explored the problems faced by individual countries in Eastern Europe.

Then, it was time to debate how to handle the changes. Giving billions of dollars in assistance would encourage the changes, some students argued, but the United States has its own serious budget problems and doesn't have that kind of money to give away. And, they worried, would the Russians think we were just trying to take advantage of the situation?

And did we want to risk making the countries dependent on American aid, just as they had been dependent on Russian support?

Perhaps, others argued, we should adopt a hands-off policy and let them solve their problems themselves, or at least "wait 'til they're a little more desperate." The debate was often vigorous. If some misconceptions (West German "is not allowed to have an army," one student assured his classmates) or cultural stereotyping (Eastern Europe could never be a world power another said: "They don't have the knowledge, intelligence") did show up, they were probably no worse than the gaffes most adults would commit in a similarly free-wheeling discussion.

And the tone of the debate was a far cry from what might have been expected five or six years ago, when Charlie Raymond first started teaching at Telstar.

"It wasn't that long after the invasion of Afghanistan and the taking of the American hostages in Iran," he recalled, "that the prevailing student view of foreign policy was pretty much limited to a simple option: 'Nuke 'em!'"

If attitudes have changed from the era of Rambo and Red Dawn, he said, it is probably because students are now "more sophisticated about the reality of nuclear warfare," and they realize that out in the real world changes are taking place that present our country with a whole new range of options—and a whole new series of tough decisions.

Antarctic artist visits Gould; displays works

Antarctica artist Alan Campbell arrived at Gould Academy last Thursday to give a lecture, after a four-day trip from Antarctica. The water color painter barely arrived on campus in time to show his slides and talk about his most recent trip to the south polar region.

The audience found the talk and slides well worth the wait, as the slides broke what Mr. Campbell called the stereotype band. The price for the evening will be $40 per couple. Due to the state law, those under 21 years of age cannot attend.

At the close of the meeting, members of the Post were invited by the Auxiliary to join them in a brief informal Christmas party. There was a time for singing Christmas carols and secular Christmas songs along with enjoying delicious refreshments prepared by members of the Auxiliary.

Dec. 3 what a surprise to get up and see all that beautiful snow. We had 18 inches here and it has been so cold all this week. Today, Friday it sure was cold. So glad we are retired and don't have to get up and get out.

Tuesday, Dec. 5, there were 35 Senior Citizens at the Mission Congregational Church for the Christmas party. We had a delicious baked ham with pineapple and raisin sauce if you wanted it and all the fixings. Rev. Don Rollins played the guitar and sang and after the meeting there were gifts exchanged.

Mike Spencer is spending a few days at the trailer.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Hot mulled cider and a variety of Christmas "goodies" were served from the winter kitchen of the Dr. Moses Mason House during the third annual "Christmas with the Masons," held Dec. 7. The bell choir, directed by Mary Valentine, entertained with Christmas music in the meeting room and the museum was decorated with a variety of boughs, berries and fruit, much as it would have been in the 19th century. Ruth Silver led group singing of old time Christmas favorites.

Following the annual "Christmas with the Masons," the Society's monthly meeting was held. President Marvin Ovinga thanked all those who had made the annual Christmas meeting such a rousing success. He also called attention to the 1990 Bethel Historical Society calendar, which is selling fast. He urged those interested to buy their soon, before supplies are exhausted.

The "Artifact of the Month" was announced as a framed portrait of Phineas Howard, Sr. (1785-1851), who briefly lived in Sutherland, Canada (later Bethel) before moving to Howard's Gore, where he was the proprietor, later part of the present town of Hanover. Donor of this important addition to the collections of the Bethel Historical Society was Judith Ray, of Austin, Texas, and a summer resident of Hanover. The portrait is not signed and the artist is unknown, but it is believed to have been painted in the early 19th century.

After the business portion of the meeting, Society Director Stanley Howe showed a sampling of some of the photographs from the past, copied by the Society during the past year. Also included were slides of Society events during 1989.

Refreshments of Christmas favorites followed the program. Both events attracted large crowds.

Those interested in membership in the Bethel Historical Society should remember that December is membership month. The Society, one of Bethel's largest and most active organizations, is open to anyone interested in joining. The cost of dues is modest at the sustaining and senior levels. Individuals are free to choose from a variety of levels. A gift membership is also possible for anyone wishing to find something for that special person for Christmas. Gift membership cards are available. Anyone wishing more information on membership should call the Society office, at 894-2908, or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel 04217.

LOOKING BACKWARD
10 Years Ago: Lantern slides of Bethel area winter scenes, some more than 50 years old, were shown at the annual Christmas meeting of the Bethel Historical Society. They were made by Ralph Hall of Paradise Road. A Christmas parade with music by the Telstar Regional High School band, plus singers from Gould Academy, officially opened the Christmas season in Bethel.

Deaths: Sophie B. Hebb, Ralph E. Summerton, M. William Grondin.

20 Years Ago: Amy Susan Kennett, daughter of Alden and Mabel Kennett, was selected as the DAR Good Citizen of Telstar Regional High School by Amarscoggin Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Approximately 50 percent of the 1969 property taxes were collected. It was decided at the December monthly meeting to incorporate the Bethel Historical Society. Donations of yards of pennies were received from the following for the Society's endowment fund: Belle Hamlin, two yards; Susan Brown, one yard; Eugenia Haselton, two yards; Evelyn Bennett, two yards; Guy Parker family, nine yards; Mary Calderwood, five yards; anonymous, eight yards.

Births: Floyd A. Sessions, Dennis A. Swan.

Marriages: Wayne R. Bean and Wilma L. Harrington.

Deaths: Orin W. Sprague, Virginia E. McMillin, Leland L. Hanson.

30 Years Ago: Ten Oxford County 4-H members were invited to attend the state 4-H Achievement Days at the University of Maine, Orono, Dec. 28-31. Among the 10 were Stanley Howe and Linda Brown of Bethel. Thirteen members of Zeta Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society met at the apartment of Olive Lurvey. Following the business meeting Mrs. Lurvey showed slides taken during her University of Maine educational tour of the United States.

40 Years Ago: The Bethel ski tow started operations, with Frank Nary in charge. Lt. Col. James Alger was appointed aide-de-camp to Gen. Crittenden, principal advisor to the United States Mission to the United Nations. Marily Noyes, of East Bethel, an honor student majoring in botany at the University of Maine, was presented with a compound microscope donated by the family of the late John Parlin, of Canton Point.

Deaths: Liebeth Philbrick, Lily Burbank, Lauri Immonen.

50 Years Ago: Harry Hutchinson lost a finger while working in the H.F. Thurston & Son mill. John Rubino, of Rumford, announced the opening of a store in the Nainey Block. The American Legion placed barrels in grocery stores for contributions for Christmas baskets.

Births: Paul D. McDonald.

Marriages: Lawrence Sessions and Ethel Smith.

Deaths: Evanda Whitman, Charles M. Herrick, Estelle Maddocks, Charles H. Bell, Sanford Brown, Chandler Buzzell.

RECENT ACQUISITION—Helen Morton, left, of the Bethel Historical Society's Museum Committee, and Judith Haskell, of the Society's Museum Committee, pose with an early-19th century portrait of Phineas Howard Sr. (1785-1851). The portrait was recently donated to the Society by Judith Ray, of Austin, Texas. The sitter for the portrait was a prosperous mill owner and the proprietor of Howard's Gore, now part of the Town of Hanover.

New ice fishing rules

The Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife alerts winter anglers to several changes in Maine's fishing regulations in effect this ice fishing season.

Peter Bourque, director of the Fisheries and Hatches Division, advises that two of the changes affect ice fishing statewide:

The daily limit on brown trout and rainbow trout has been reduced from three fish to two fish.

It is now illegal to place ice fishing shacks or other temporary structures used for ice fishing on the ice of any inland waters more than three days before those waters are opened to ice fishing.

In addition, Bourque notes there are several significant regulation changes affecting local waters in various parts of the state. Some of the more important changes follow:

Fisheries Region A (Southwestern Maine)—Thompson Lake, closed to taking of salmon.

Fisheries Region B (South Central Maine)—1) Parker Pond, two line limit, one salmon bag limit; 2) China and Maranook lakes, 14 inch length limit on brown trout.

Fisheries Region C (Eastern Maine)—1) Reduction in limit on salmon and togue from three fish to two (new this year to Washington County); 2) Reduction in bass limit from five to three

(new this year to Washington County);

3) Long Pond, Mt. Desert Island, one salmon limit; 4) Big Lake—mouth of Grand Lake Stream closed to ice fishing.

Fisheries Region E (Moosehead-jackman)—1) Brassus Lake, 12 inch length limit on brook trout; 2) Big Wood Pond, 18 inch limit on togue (formerly 16 inches).

Fisheries Region G (Northern Maine)—1) Most of Fish River Chain of Lakes, reduction from five fish to three fish limit, not to include more than two salmon, two trout or two togue; with a 12 inch minimum length on trout; 2) Square Lake, three fish limit (not more than one salmon, two trout, two togue); 3) Aroostook River, closed to ice fishing.

David Preble, Pharm.D.
Cold Medicine
Recommendations

In the September issue of American Druggist, chain store and independent community pharmacists' recommendations for over-the-counter cold products are listed. Product recommendations were made for liquid cold products, long-acting cold preparations, cold tablets, multi-symptom products, and products for sinus conditions. Pharmacists indicated that they received more consumer requests for cold tablet recommendations than for other forms of cold medicines.

Liquid Cold Products: Chain store pharmacists recommended Dimetapp Elixir most often. Independent pharmacists recommended Nyquil.

Long-Acting Cold Products: Drixoral was recommended most often by both groups of pharmacists.

Multi-Symptom Products: Independent and chain store pharmacists preferred Comtrex over similar products.

Cold Tablets: Acified was recommended most often by chain pharmacists, while independent pharmacists recommended Drixoral.

We now spend over $2 billion annually for over-the-counter cough/cold medicines.

News from

Woodstock School

From The Desk Of The Principal: The children really enjoyed seeing their old friend Rick Charette again this week. Rick has often commented on the special relationship he feels with our school, and that feeling was certainly noticeable Thursday. Following his concert Rick visited classrooms and talked freely with our students. The evening performance was also a huge success with 300 people in attendance.

Don't forget our 5th annual Woodstock School Food Drive. This is in cooperation with the Bethel Rotary Club. A box for donations is located just outside the office area. We would appreciate your support once again this year.

By MYRA FOSTER

My apologies to the National Honor Society for not giving them the credit for putting on the Thanksgiving dinner for the Senior Citizens.

Alder River Grange #145 will hold a meeting on Dec. 16 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Howe. There will be a 6:30 supper, so please bring a hot dish. Also bring a gift of not more than $5 for the Christmas tree. Please say whether it is for a man or woman.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holman and Heather of Durham; Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Smith, Sean and Dirk of Bucksport; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Harrington were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crockett on Thanksgiving day.

Mr. and Mrs. John Foster of Andover with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Wilson of Australia, Mrs. Foster's brother and sister-in-law, visited us on Nov. 28.

On Dec. 1 Mrs. Richard Stearns and grandchildren, Eric and Shanna Westleigh, of Rumford Corner, took me to see Dr. Richard Bean in Norway for a physical.

On Dec. 2, Mr. and Mrs. John Foster of Andover; Mrs. Rob Festino and Britany of Saco and Mrs. Isobel Wilson visited us to show me my newest great-grandchild. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stearns of Rumford Corner called on me Dec. 4. Dick filled the woodbox.

Bill Roberts went with Richard Stearns to Island Falls Dec. 6 to go rabbit hunting.

HOLIDAY HIGHWAY HAZARDS
Although highway fatalities are down 21 percent so far this year as compared to last, the Bureau of Safety is urging motorists to use extra caution through Christmas and New Year's.

From Jan. 1 through Dec. 6, 182 fatalities were recorded on Maine's roads, compared with 229 for the same period in 1988. Several factors will influence whether this trend toward lower fatalities will continue through the holidays, but Richard Perkins, director of the Bureau of Safety, cited alcohol as the biggest single factor. "With the increased number of social events, it is very important that hosts act responsibly in serving alcohol," he said. "For those attending a party, the designated driver is a wise idea."

Other factors Mr. Perkins noted were

High Street

By VIVA WHITMAN
West Paris

A pretty pink sky showing this morning as I sit down to type but what does it hold in store for us I wonder? You know the old saying, pink sky in the morning, sailors take warning. Sometimes it is best-headed and sometimes it doesn't seem to mean a thing so will have to wait and see what happens.

It has been a busy week for me as I have been sewing, doing needle work and knitting to get things done for Christmas. Seems as though I am way behind this year so have to get things done in a hurry or I won't get them done at all. Still have sewing to do for my little girls and hopefully I will get it done in time. Got to be quick like a bunny.

However, it is hard to be quick and efficient when one is coughing their heads off with bronchitis. I can't seem to get rid of this awful cough and it gets very tiring. Have had antibiotics but they haven't cleared it up as yet. That's the way my life seems to go. Wish I could get back some of my health but maybe it is lost forever, who knows!

How did you all like that nice snow storm we had Saturday night? It was a humdinger in my estimation with about a foot of the beautiful white stuff around here for Russell to clear out. David Yates came in and pushed some of the snow back for us for which we are grateful. Every little bit of help like that is appreciated. It took Russell some time to clear out the yard and driveway to satisfaction. I assure you that he and Peggy didn't go to the dance Saturday night for which they are thankful now as they would have had to go clear around through South Paris to get home. Mary Lovejoy told me she had to go that way and pushed snow all the way as the plows hadn't cleared the roads. Don't know what they were doing all that time as there was about eight inches of snow at midnight or so we were told. That makes for hard traveling for anyone and we hadn't had any clearing out on High Street at that time either. I told a fellow who called here yesterday that I thought anyone who went out that night, if they didn't have to, was stupid. Don't know if he liked it or not but still think it is true.

Peggy got out on Sunday and helped Russell what she could with clearing the yard.

Where she is staying in her home this winter she has had to do some fixing up and with the snow there is always some in the way. Wish I was any good so I could get out and help them with this work. That was a days work in itself and then to put in an eight hour day on top of it could make one tired.

Russell's back has bothered some since he went to help Nona and Mike move. Those stairs where they lived are killers and they just about did him in with carrying so much stuff up and down them. I helped all I could but didn't do the stairs carrying things like he and Peggy did. I helped unpack and put stuff away and got it out where Nona could find it and put it where she wanted it, or where she told me she wanted it.

Went to town on Monday to do the rest of my Christmas shopping but find I am missing a thing or two so will have to go back again to get what I thought I had. It can be a chore to do shopping when that happens.

I haven't gotten any Christmas cards at this time but Russell and Peggy have and guess it is time to start writing them out. There are always some that I seem to miss no matter how careful I am to try to send one to everybody.

Russell and Peggy have been able to go for walks lately but I haven't dared venture out to do that with this bronchitis I have. The cold air makes me cough even worse and I cough enough as it is.

Has anyone got lots of birds? We have been surprised this year as we haven't seen many birds out here. Russell has put out feed but not many birds at all. Wish we had that pretty cardinal I saw at Nona's new home in Auburn. He was a beautiful red bird. Never saw one of them so close before. It seems strange not to look out and see a flock of chickadees on the feeder fighting to see which one will get the next seed.

We saw a squirrel running along the big wire a short time ago but he didn't bother to tell us what he was looking for. It is fun to watch them run along the wires to get where they want to go. I saw one down in the city doing just that and he traveled a long way on the overhead wires.

Wynona went to a dance at Skowhegan on Sunday night with friends and on the way home her car broke down so she had to stay in Augusta with friends that night and they didn't get around to look at her car until Tuesday morning to see what was the matter so she had a bad trip. Costly, too, from what she has told me and she had to come borrow Russell's truck while she gets her car fixed. Hope it doesn't take too long.

Take care everybody and have a good and healthy week ahead. Hope everyone has some grand holidays.

County United Way over half-way mark

The United Way of Oxford County fund drive for 1989 has reached 70 percent of its goal of $75,000 in gifts and pledges, with a number of businesses and individuals yet to report.

Executive Director Richard Adams said he was pleased with this, the initial fund-raising effort in the county and with the progress the United Way Board has made in setting up the procedures for selecting participating agencies and for allocating funds.

"The United Way certainly does work for everyone," he said, "and the monies raised will support those programs that affect everyone in Oxford County."

For those who have not had the chance to hear the United Way story and/or would like to make a contribution or pledge, they may do so by writing the

WINTER NEEDN'T BE ALL DOWNHILL—Youngsters from Crescent Park School now have a chance to sharpen their basketball skills during the chilly months. The Saturday morning basketball sessions at the Telstar gym—the project of high school basketball coaches Carroll Higgins and Barbara Dunham—have attracted an enthusiastic crowd of would-be hoopers and volunteer coaches. Here, CPS 3rd- and 4th-graders show off a variety of ball-handling techniques. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Newry

By GIL SEELEY

About 25 people showed up for the Christmas tree lighting Friday evening, Dec. 1, at the Newry Municipal building. Pictures were taken, carols were sung and stories were told. Refreshments were served inside by the members of the Newry Mother's Club and fun was had by all, especially by the children. The annual Newry Mother's Christmas party was held at the Sunday River Inn Monday evening, Dec. 4, hosted by secretary Peg Wight. Around 21 members attended. A delicious potluck supper was enjoyed, then the members retired to the spacious living room to receive their secret pals' final gifts and found out who they were. Gil Seeley received a special gift from some secret pals who wouldn't disclose their names. It was in the form of money, so that she could enjoy some bowling. After the evening of gift unwrapping, the secretary Peg passed around the 1990 names to be picked. An enjoyable evening was had by all and thank you to Peg Wight and good night.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Eleanor Davis, Sylvia Wight and Bea Lowell went bowling at the Oxford Lane, Rumford, last week. Ren Powers was a guest. Betsy Clark was high on the triples with Karlene close second with only three points behind. Betsy was also high on the singles with one string of over 100. All went to lunch and did some shopping.

RURAL EDUCATION GRANTS

The National Rural and Small School Consortium and the American Council on Rural Special Education will award six scholarships, three in rural education and three in rural special education to outstanding students who are committed to careers in rural education.

In each of the areas, scholarships will be awarded to two undergraduate students and one graduate student who have shown exemplary academic performance and leadership potential. The awards of $500 each will be made for one academic year. Scholarship recipients will be announced at the annual ACRES National Rural Special Education Conference and the National Rural and Small Schools Consortium.

To be eligible for consideration each applicant must have completed at least one full year of college studies and be a full-time undergraduate or graduate student in a university. Applications must be postmarked no later than Jan. 15, 1990.

For further information contact: Nora Hutto, New Mexico Center for Rural Education, Box 30001, Dept. 3N, New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, NM 88003.

"WREATHED," IF NOT IN SMILES—Andover Elementary School 2nd-grader Thomas Andexler models the latest in Christmas muffers as his mom, Betty, shops the craft table at the school's Christmas Fair. The fair, held Friday, was sponsored by the Andover Parent Teacher group, and raised more than $500 to be put toward cultural events, trips and other activities at the school. Added to the Stephens Memorial Christmas tree lighting list are two lights by Mildred Buck Foulin in memory of her son, Sherwood Buck, and daughter, Arline Cushman. Also two by Carl and Aline Bonney in memory of Owen Bonney, Sr. and Gladys Bonney.

A total of 125 lights were given by Bryant Pond area residents and Evelyn T. Bean, director of the Stephens Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, thanks all who graciously gave, as a benefit for the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sicotte, daughter Susan and grandson Jason attended the wedding of their granddaughter, Sharon, in Delaware recently. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith, Newark Del. While there they enjoyed Thanksgiving with the family.

Word has been received of the death of Robert Cummings, Rockville, Md. Mr. Cummings was from this area and a 1934 graduate of Woodstock High School. Sympathy goes to his sister, Velma Cummings, and brother, Murry.

The Woodstock Senior Citizens met at Ledgeview Memorial Home on Thursday. A delicious dinner was served by Ledgeview Auxiliary. Exchange of gifts and cards and carol singing was held after the dinner. 35 were present.

Franklin Grange #224 will meet for a regular meeting and Christmas party on Monday, Dec. 18.

The Woodstock Extension will meet at the home of Alice Hoyt on Wednesday, Dec. 20, at 1 p.m. with a tasting party.

Northwest Bethel

By CLARICE GIBSON

Dec. 2, it started to snow soon after dark and by morning we had quite a few inches. George and Frankie went to Town & Country, Shelburne, N.H., with the Red Top crew. Ira and Kristin walked over in the snow and played 68 with Frank and myself. The 3rd was a day of getting plowed and shoveled out. Kim Gibson drove up from Lewiston and picked me up and we then went to the Congregational Church in Norway where they had Christmas in a Small Town choral production and bellingers for the seventh year. My brother, Daniel Allen, is the choir director and was very glad I had a chance to go as I had never been before. It got over after dark and coming back to Bethel there were strings of vehicles with skis as the word of the new snow must have traveled fast. The 4th, Evelyn Hilborn had to go to Norway so asked me to go along for the ride. The weather is again around zero and when the wind blows, of course, is much colder with the wind chill factor.

The 2nd, my niece, Pearl, and Steve Ivy came in the afternoon to see her cousin, Ira, and Kristin and stayed for supper.

Dec. 6 had a very red sky in the morning and looking out the kitchen window was a beautiful painting, framed by the window frame. Frank called quite early and wanted me to go to Norway to pick up Kevin Mills who had taken a truck down to Ripley and Fletcher to leave. After leaving Kevin at the shop, I then proceeded to Gorham, N.H., for more shopping.

Dec. 7, Kristin and Ira went to the hospital a little after midnight and it was snowing quite heavily then. At 12:31 a.m., the 8th, Kristin delivered an 8 lb, 10 oz, 21 1/2 inch boy, James William Ira Gibson. Evelyn Hilborn and I went down later in the day, had dinner at Country Way, and then went to see the baby. Evelyn left me at the hospital while she ran errands and then came in to get me later.

Dr. Lennie, Becky, Jon and Jen Shaw went skiing at Mount Abram Dec. 2 and on the 3rd Dr. Shaw and the twins went. The 2nd, Bob, Linda, Seth and Jon Howe went to Auburn Mall to see Santa, then to eat before going to see the movie, "Prancer."

Greg Tyler and Emily have moved in with his mother, Delores Williams. Stan and Althea Brown will fly into Salt Lake City, Utah, to be with their son, Corey Brown and family, for Christmas. They will be picked up at the airport by Pat Brown and driven to their home at Rock Springs, Wyo. Corey and Pat have three children, so they will have the fun of being with the grandchildren Christmas day.

Sue and Dick Angevine were taken out to lunch Dec. 7 at Brew's Dairy for Sue's birthday. They then went back to Sue and Dick's for cake and ice cream. The cake was made by Sue's daughter, Sherri, and granddaughter, Tana.

LEGION CHRISTMAS PARTY.

The American Legion and Auxiliary Oxford County Council will hold a meeting on Dec. 19 at 7:30 p.m. at Dixfield. There will be a Christmas party and exchange of gifts.

The Littlefields who were living up by the turn have now moved to Bridge Street.

Lines on a Snowy Night
There's no more peaceful sight I know
Than my world filling up with snow;
Than viewing on a quiet night
A landscape wrapped in winter white,
With snowflakes falling thick and dense,
Clothing the earth in innocence.

*I wish that all could share with me
This moment of tranquility,
Could feel flakes brush across their face
Like fragments of transparent lace,
And love the whispering wind that shifts
Snow cargoes into softest drifts.*

*I sense a sheer enchantment grow
Within this white, hushed world of snow,
And feel on such a night that I
Am kin to all of earth and sky;
Knowing that surely I must be
Chiel heir to God's infinity.*

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

This is December and in our part of the world December is the time when winter gets down to business. I can look out over the pond and see the wavy expanse of snow being tossed into heaps like a curled stable wave. Over the crest of each hill sends hissing clouds of snow. These white waves remind me of the ocean tossed by the wind. Never was an artist as free as the wind. All last night the winds worked around the house, tossing the light snow in wild sport. It screamed and hurried the snow fragments high into the gloom.

My window panes this morning had ferns and blossoms and fine sprays of pine. They charm the eye but remind me of the zero cold. This hour frost is an aggregation of icy crystals that form these patterns of feathers.

All the world I can see looks white on white, and snow is moving, sitting, clinging, obscuring the rules. This must be the way it was while Snow White slept in the woods in ermine and the world enchanted.

Snow is not really white. Snow crystals are transparent and as they lie by the millions on the ground, they reflect light in all directions; creating the white color of snow.

It is hard to know a good field from the poor or a meadow from a pasture. The best kept grounds relapse to a state of nature.

The blue jays are about their business in blue silence. The chickadees is the most vocal bird in the yard. Silence lies deep in the valley, where only a few weeks ago frogs thumped the darkness.

Time now for the long sleep of the four footed brethren, for days and days or weeks and weeks. No creature in nature sleeps continuously throughout the winter. Even deep hibernators such as the woodchucks will wake up for occasional brief spells.

I have been out to shovel my path and my mail box as well as a few other places. After finishing these I carried a little wood for I like a wood fire; it is so cozy. The sun was bright and made our frosty valley gleam.

My muscles ached comfortably with that wonderful feeling of having been used as they were intended. Though tired it was a gratifying fatigue of good health and exercise. When night comes I know I'll drift off to sleep with a happy mind replete with delightful memories.

This week everyone has talked about the weather but that hasn't changed it any.

My cousin and I chose one sunny day to go out for lunch and do some shopping. My neighbor, Steve Mitchell, has been here at his camp, from sunny Florida. He surely got a feel for a Maine winter.

Rena Curtis has had several visitors, Don and Carla Whittermore, Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cogswell, Freeport; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Curtis, Norway. Carl Curtis visited Ray in Norway.

Do beavers eat fish? Mr. Koch's 6th-graders are finding out. A story in reading is all about beavers, their lodges and their habits. In social studies the class is watching film strips about Mexico.

Twice a week, while some class members are practicing music, the remainder play a social studies game developed by the National Geographic Society, Global Pursuit. This is one of several games we use to teach geography to our students. In math everyone is working hard in fractions. My 8th-graders are working hard also. Some are finishing up multiplication, while others are working with division. We have finished our science unit on rocks, and at this writing, we are looking forward to a special guest, Tony Waldeier, of Watford. Mr. Waldeier is the teaching principal in Watford, and is going to share his expertise on rocks with us.

I don't have too much news from Grade 4. Mr. Litchfield has hurt his back and has missed two weeks of school. We sent him get well wishes. Mrs. Denise Putnam has been substituting and keeping things in good shape for his return. She has finished reading Saccawewa, and begun a fun book, Bunnica. The 4th and 5th Grade windows are sporting Christmas candle decorations and beginning to look quite festive. The 4th-graders are welcoming back Billy Farnum.

The 3rd-graders are keeping their noses to the grindstone and are working with homophones, rhyming words. They are working in the individualized math program. They are learning a life skill and integrating math and social studies and learning about banking and check writing. They are practicing Christmas music.

Joel Martino is the 2nd Grade student of the week. Chris, the Christmas dog, is the current class mascot. Children get to take Chris home for a visit, along with a Christmas book to share with their families. Two reading groups have just finished their readers and have begun the next book. Congratulations! Also, congratulations go to the winners of the Par-chest tournament. Four students received prizes for their expertise in math ability and strategy; maybe a little luck too! Jessica Skinner was first, Matt Blake, second; Jessica Farrar, third; and Walter Inman, fourth. Well done all!

The 1st-graders continue to work on their math number contracts. Laura, Aaron and Stanley have moved on to a 6-7-8 contract. Congratulations. Students are learning their reading words using a Good Apple Word Contest Sheet. Mrs. Loper does a lot with a bear theme, and Jacob is the Beary-Good student of the week. The class is creating a winter scene, making a tree by tracing all their little hands. These are all being arranged in the shape of a fir tree. Soon everyone will be involved in making a Christmas surprise for moms and dads. Mrs. Loper has dropped one hint. Mr. Loper, an industrial arts teacher, is coming in to help!

The kindergarten classes are learning Mother Goose rhymes, learning the letter J, graphing and sorting all kinds of things, decorating Frosty's hat and studying the value in good nutrition of beginning the day with a good breakfast.

Don't forget our Christmas concert scheduled for Monday, the 18th, at 7 p.m. All students will be participating.

Elderwood Manor Items

By Florence Hall

Nancy Fox, Bethel visited Anne Fox for supper recently.

The Myshalls have beautifully decorated at the Manor with Christmas lights.

Louise Powell, Hale, and friend Bernice visited Alma Hewey.

Granddaughter Lynne helped to decorate Apt. 7 for grandmother Flora Whittan.

Anne Fox attended a Christmas party with the Ladies Aid Group and guests at Betsy White's on Wednesday.

Robert Hutchins took his mother, Gertrude to Lewiston for a doctor appointment on Thursday.

Thought for the day: You can never do a kindness too soon for you never know how soon it will be too late.

Calvary Congregational Church

Our guests for the day: Hal, Linda Stone and family, Jennie, Jodi, and Jill.

In January they go to Costa Rica to language school. Hal is a pilot and his wife a nurse. God has called them later in the year to Columbia, S.A.

Responsive reading Romans 9:1-13.

The choir sang: "In a Cave Our Lovely Savior Was Born On This Holy Morn."

Special music by Hal Stone: "My House Is Full." His message from I Tim. 3, a picture of today's world, as in the day of Timothy. Later at 2 p.m. a slide presentation of Columbia, a question and answer time, and Jodi played "Away In The Manger" on the violin.

Christmas Program: Dec. 17 at 6 p.m.

Are you finding security in God? Sovereign Ruler of the skies, ever gracious, ever wise, all my times are in your hand, all events at your command.

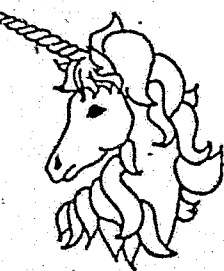

Santa's Elves Work Here!!

We've been extra busy making unusual and wonderful decorations so that your home can shine with the holiday spirit.

We're asked to the rooftop with gorgeous poinsettias, thick roping, heavy Noble Fir wreaths and beautiful Christmas centerpieces featuring fresh holly and the loveliest of seasonal flowers.

Come visit our workshop — we've never too busy to help you choose the perfect gift or decoration to make your holidays the most beautiful ever!!

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE WHEREAS, on August 24, 1989, a Judgment of Foreclosure and Order of Sale was entered by the District Court, District Eleven, Division of Northern District, in an action entitled OXFORD BANK AND TRUST v. DAVID P. BRUNNETT and DAVID P. MERO, et al., under docket No. 18-189-07, for the foreclosure of a certain mortgage given by the said David P. Brunnett and David P. Mero to the Oxford Bank and Trust dated May 28, 1987, and recorded in the Oxford County Registry of Deeds in Book 1480, Page 7, and

WHEREAS, the statutory ninety (90) day redemption period has elapsed without redemption by the said Defendants, their successors, heirs or assigns;

NOW, THEREFORE, by order of and in execution of said Judgment of Foreclosure and Order of Sale, notice is hereby given that there will be sold, at public sale at 10 A.M. on Tuesday, January 16, 1990, at the Office of John S. Jennings, Jr., Esq., 49 Market Square, South Paris, Maine, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage, to wit:

A certain lot or parcel of land, together with the buildings thereon, and together with a right-of-way from the Branch Road, so-called, thereto, said premises and right-of-way being described as Lot numbered four (4) as delineated upon a Plan of Lots at Newry, County of Oxford, State of Maine, entitled, "Phase I Proposed Plan of Subdivision of Chase Hill Lot, said survey by S.L.F. Inc., dated January 1975 and recorded at the Oxford County Registry of Deeds on March 26, 1987, and recorded in said Registry in Book 1480, page 8.

TERMS OF SALE: Pursuant to Title 14 M.R.S.A. §6323, the public sale shall be held not less than Thirty (30) days nor more than Forty-five (45) days after the first date of publication. The Mortgagee shall sell the premises to the highest bidder at the public sale and deliver a deed of such sale to the purchaser, which deed shall convey the premises free and clear of all interest of the parties interested in the action. The mortgagee or any other party in interest may bid at the public sale. All other terms are to be announced at the sale or may be obtained by contacting the mortgagee at their place of business in Oxford, Maine.

DATED AT PARIS, MAINE, this 28th day of November, 1989.

BELANGER-LABBE WEDDINGS
Rachel Marie Belanger and Daren Labbe were married July 8 at the Andover Congregational Church. The Rev. Marjorie Churchill officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Belanger of Andover. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Labbe of Berlin, N.H.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a white floor-length gown of tulle with a scooped neckline, silk tulle, and short princess puffed sleeves, and finished with a full skirt. Her hair was styled in a short, wavy bob. She carried a small bouquet of white flowers. The groom wore a tuxedo and carried a sword.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

The North Paris Federated Church is having a community Christmas party at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Giddings went to Freeport Saturday to attend the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stille. Rev. Kenneth Gidding performed the second ceremony on Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stille in remembrance of their first marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Giddings drove home in the weekend blizzard. It took them two hours to get home Saturday night.

The Woodstock Trading Cabin Co., run by Jerry Benson, is taking deer hides and these can be made into anything the

CHRIS DOWNS ENGAGED

Mrs. Robert H. Graham of Andover wishes to announce the engagement of her son, Chris W. Downs, to Rebecca Ann Merced, daughter of Cecelia Rose Merced of Mt. Vernon, N.Y.

Mr. Downs is a 1988 graduate of Telstar Regional High School and a graduate from Faith School of Theology in Bangor. He is currently at the Calvary Learning Center in Staten Island, N.Y.

Ms. Merced is a graduate of Eli Whitney High School of N.Y.C. Also a graduate from Fordham University. She is currently employed as an optometric technician in Mount Vernon, N.Y. The couple are planning on a June wedding, 1990.

Walter L. Downs, the father, resides in Maine.

River color, odor, foam report due in January

Mandated by executive order, a report on controlling color, odor and foam in Maine's rivers is on schedule for review by a special advisory committee in January.

The report will be compiled by the paper industry using data collected by seven bleached kraft mills. Each has studied the technology, investment and on-going costs associated with reducing color at its plant site. Strategies for reductions of 10, 35 and 60 percent of color discharges have been examined.

The study was ordered by governor McKernan last spring. The independent advisory committee was formed to oversee the data collection and review the report. The committee's conclusions will be presented to the governor in time for him to recommend appropriate action during the Second Regular Session of the 114th Legislature.

Ring Bearer were Tabetha and Michael Silver.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Andover Town Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Labbe are now residing in Lewiston. The bride is a graduate of New Hampshire Vocational Technical College in Claremont, N.H. and is employed at Central Maine Medical Center. The groom is a graduate of Plymouth State College in Plymouth, N.H., and is employed by the Lee Group.

hunter wants, gloves, etc. or they will buy the hides from you. Jerry Benson built the big house up back and is living in it. His brother Christopher Benson lives in the Robert Benson's home. Jerry Benson also builds log cabins and would be glad to talk with you about them if that is your desired home or otherwise.

Lettie and Carl Brooks, Bertha Benoit and I went to Paris Grange Saturday for their Greenash night. Bertha put on a good program for the occasion.

Joyce Hathaway and five friends took a bus tour to New York City. They left Friday morning from So. Portland and arrived that night. The tour guide on the bus was Mary Nicholas who lived in Sheldon Morgan's home at one time. The women took in the "Cat" show Friday night and took bus tours, etc. Saturday.

In the evening they attended another special show, the Christmas special at Radio City. They returned home Sunday missing all the lovely snow we had Saturday night.

Wednesday Joyce Hathaway entertained the Greenwood Historical Society with a potluck supper and Christmas party.

The Willing Workers Christmas Party will be at Ledgewood Wednesday the 6th. Potluck lunch and exchange of gifts will be had then.

AUDUBON WINTER WALKS
Maine Audubon Society's winter ecology walks for groups of all ages will be offered from Tuesday, Jan. 9, through Friday, March 30.

The walks are conducted at the 60 acre Gilsland Farm sanctuary, headquarters of the Maine Audubon Society in Falmouth. School groups, scout troops, neighborhood groups, senior citizens, and others are invited to make reservations for the 1990 season.

Each 1½ hour walk introduces participants to the many ways plants and animals prepare for the winter. Participants look for animal signs, tracks, and homes, and learn about the properties of snow and other forms of natural insulation. The outdoor tour is followed by indoor activities that reinforce concepts presented during the walk.

Walks are scheduled from Jan. 9 to March 30, Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. The fee is $1 per person, including chaparrons, with a minimum of $15 per group. Reservations must be made in advance by calling Carol LeBlanc at Maine Audubon Society, 761-2330. All groups receive introductory information prior to the walk, including resource materials and suggested pre-walk activities.

Maine Audubon Society is a statewide non-profit environmental organization with programs in environmental education, wildlife, advocacy, and stewardship.

AUDUBON WALK GUIDES NEEDED
Maine Audubon Society is currently seeking volunteers interested in training to become guides for the Society's annual Winter Walks program, offered at the 60 acre Gilsland Farm sanctuary in Falmouth.

The Winter Walks program runs from Jan. 9 to March 30. The walks are offered to school and community groups of all ages, and introduce participants to the ways plants and animals prepare for winter.

Training for volunteer guides is scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Jan. 3, 4, and 5. The Wednesday session introduces new guides to the program; the Thursday and Friday sessions are for new and returning guides, and will include the natural history of the sanctuary, hands-on teaching techniques and games, and concepts of winter ecology and adaptation. Guides are requested to lead one walk per week during the Winter Walks season. No previous natural history or education experience is required.

Volunteers interested in learning more about becoming a guide with the Winter Walks program may contact Susanne McLeod, Coordinator of Volunteers, at Maine Audubon Society, 118 US Rte. 1, Falmouth 04105, 761-2330. Information about other volunteer opportunities at Maine Audubon Society is also available.
